It's a REVELATION !

WHY?

The G1 "Revelator" Dual Amp (patent pending) will be recognized by the long-time, multi-amp owner/musician, and vintage gear lover as an idea who's time has come. The Revelator marries two of the best vintage tube amp designs, a Fender "blackface" Deluxe Super Reverb and a Marshall 50 watt "plexi". Each of the two independent amplifiers feature complete tube pre-amp and tube output stages. The tube output is then amplified again (to attain a higher volume level) using rugged, linear solid state components, all in an innovative format never before successfully achieved (patent pending). Our success at attaining full-on, sweet harmonic, and honest vintage tube audio is realized by following our philosophy of allowing tubes to do what they do best, and letting the solid state components do what they do best.

In a nutshell, imagine miking a fine vintage tube amp through a PA system; ideally, the PA system shouldn't change the tonal characteristics of the amp. It should simply make it louder. Or think about listening to a guitar recording through your Hi-Fi. It makes the recording louder or quieter, but it hasn't really changed the tonal character of the recorded guitar amplifier.

In our amp, the solid state power section (think of it as a PA power amp) stays clean and linear, thereby not adding any tonal characteristics of its own to the audio signal! Its job is simply to make the tube amps louder or quieter, depending on the decibel level needed by the musician.

The uniqueness of the Revelator provides it with the ability to powerfully and creatively blend or pan between the "blackface" and the "plexi" tube amps to achieve or "invent" an infinite variety of tone combinations not possible with conventional channel switching amps. Strike a clean "blackface" chord and pan seamlessly into classic "plexi" overdrive. Or find that elusive "unique" tone that perfectly compliments your instrument and playing style. Perhaps it's a warm "blackface" sound with just a hint of overdriven "plexi" thrown in. You'll create your own "sweet spot" with the blend pedal!

We believe this amplifier combines the benefits of tonal quality and flexibility in one package, in a way never before realized. In short, we think you're gonna' love this amp!
